2020 Miami International Boat Show Generates Excitement for Nemo Product

BWMG presented their suite of products at the 2020 Miami International Boat Show which was held at the Miami Marine Stadium from February 13th - 17th. Feedback from attendees to BLU3's new kiosk display was enthusiastic and there were a significant number of sales generated from the show. This was BLU3's first show with inventory on hand.

"It was great to have boat show attendees stop by our new kiosk where they were able to watch videos and learn what it's like to enjoy a tankless diving experience with Nemo and touch and feel the product. Everyone was impressed with the engineering of the product, in particular the portability and ease of use, and we made quite a few sales at the show." said Blake Carmichael, the Chief Executive Officer of BLU3, the division of BWMG that is responsible for the Nemo product, adding, "We have now sold and shipped over 500 units of Nemo, and we can't wait for the next opportunity to interact with new fans of the product. We look forward to introducing attendants of the Palm Beach International Boat Show to the world's smallest dive system in late March."
